

Remarketing your IT can transform lives

“We are very excited about working with Circuit UK, as this unique initiative enables organisations to help raise significant funds for charity, without acting outside their normal course of business.”

Jacqui Walford
Director of Fundraising
QEF

Queen Elizabeth's Foundation is pleased to announce an innovative new partnership with Circuit UK Ltd, a leading organisation in the remarketing and recycling of IT assets.

Together we will be supporting disabled people prepare for sustainable employment.

Circuit UK provides a response to the financial and environmental issues that redundant and obsolete IT equipment can cause. Authorised by the Environment Agency, its clients benefit from a service that fully complies with all current legislation including the WEEE and ROHS Directives.

Each time an organisation upgrades its IT infrastructure there is usually a retained value in the obsolete assets. Circuit UK then remarkets these for sale, providing a potential profit share for you whilst donating 70% of its net profit share to QEF.*

The service provides for: -

- The complete controlled management of the remarketing/recycling process
- The collection and Grading of that equipment
- Security/erasing of data per agreed Client instruction
- Finally the remarketing of equipment with a retained value or the recycling of the remainder

Make a difference

When planning your next IT upgrade or if you have redundant IT, let Circuit UK manage all your needs. You will receive exceptional service and will directly support QEF.

To find out more, contact:

Kristian Hayter
Head of Corporate Partnerships
01372 841127
kristian.hayter@qef.org.uk

*70% of Circuit UK's net profit share, represents 28% of the total net profit from its IT Remarketing and Recycling Services, which will be paid to Queen Elizabeth's Foundation for Disabled People (registered charity number 251051). The minimum amount to be paid between April 2010 and March 2011 is £10,000.